DATES TO OCTOBER 31.

Fears of an Insurrection in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26.—In reply to a communication from Gov. Wells, in regard to a threatened negro insurrection in North Louisiana, Gen. Canby says he will order an additional force to Shreveport, and that arrangements have already been made to disabuse the negroes of any wrong impressions imposed upon them.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The steamship New York from Aspinwall, has arrived.

This morning, in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Nelson, Daniel S. Dickinson, United States District Attorney, moved that Henry S. Foote, ex member of the defunct Confederate Congress be admitted to the bar as a counsellor of the Supreme Court of the United States. The motion was granted. Foote took the first oath to support the Constitution of the United States and the State of New York without wincing, but after listening attentively to the requirements of the oath of allegiance he declared his connection with the rebel government rendered it impossible that he should subscribe to such an oath, and he left the Court room unsworn.

The Rebel Governor Allen.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27.—Friends of ex Governor Allen persist in running him for Governor, against Wells.

Ship Sunk in the Atlantic.

NEW YORK, October 26.—The steamer Hansa from Bremen, arrived to day, reports that on Oct 11th, she fell in with the British ship [illegible] from Sunderland for Quebec, sinking, and took off her crew and brought them here.

Financial Matters.

WASHINGTON, October 26.—The Secretary of the Treasury to day published the following to the Assistant Treasurers in New York: The subscriptions for fifty millions of five twenties being full, the assistant treasurers and national banks will receive no further subscriptions after this telegram comes to their notice. Signed,

H. McCULLOCH

The subscriptions already made for the loan will be recognized.

Death of Joseph E. Worcester.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—Joseph E. Worcester, L. L. D., author of Worcester's Dictionary, died at his residence in Cambridge to day, aged 81 years.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 27.—A tug exploded her boiler this afternoon and was blown to atoms. Two men were killed, including the captain.

Davis's Trial Decided Upon.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The Herald's Washington special says it is now positively known here that the trial of Jefferson Davis has been decided upon. The arrangements are nearly completed. The trial will be for treason and will take place either in this city or Richmond.

The Chickasaw Indians.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The Indian Bureau yesterday received intelligence that the Legislature of the Chickasaw Nation has ratified the treaties lately negotiated at Fort Smith, Arkansas, including the provision abolishing slavery.

Reconstruction in Georgia.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Oct. 26.—In the convention to day a resolution was introduced to appoint a committee of five to memorialize the President for the release of Jeff Davis. An amendment was offered to include all Confederate prisoners. It was adopted by a heavy majority. An ordinance nullifying the ordinance of secession was adopted and the resolutions of the secession convention, which were incompatible with the civil and military laws of the United States, were repealed. The ordinance to redistrict the State was adopted. Seven congressional districts are thus made. An election is ordered for the 15th of November for Governor, Congressmen and Assemblymen. At the evening session the convention refused the State election ordinance by a vote of 243 to 5.

Precautions against Cholera.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The Commissioners of Health, together with the Mayors of Jersey City and Brooklyn and other health officers, met to day to adopt measures against the introduction of the cholera. Resolutions were adopted to ask of the General Government a site for a hospital for the detention of patients and passengers from vessels infected with cholera.

Bonds for the Irish Republic.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The Central Bank Note Company of this city, have finished the engraving of the bonds of the Irish Republic authorized to be issued by the Fenian Congress recently in session in Philadelphia. Specimen copies have been shown. They present a very handsome appearance. It is said they are proof against the art of counterfeiters. The public sale of the bonds it is expected will commence in two weeks. They bear six per cent interest, payable at the city of ——. The Irish Republic pledge their redemption in six months after the independence of the Irish Nation is acknowledged.

South Carolina—Governor's Message.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 26.—Governor Perry's Message was read before the Legislature to day. He says that though his appointment was made several months after the other provisional Governors, South Carolina is now as far advanced in reconstruction as any other State. He alludes to the New Constitution as popular, democratic and as inspiring the people with zeal and energy in developing the resources of the State. He recommends the fostering of internal improvements and manufactures and the encouragement of foreign emigration. Northern friends are invited to come. The election of electors for President of the United States should be given to the people and an early date fixed for the election of Members of Congress. Should those elected be in Washington with their credentials, when the clerk calls the roll, they cannot be excluded any more than those from Massachusetts. No man in South Carolina can take the oath without perjury. It is not the policy of the President to enforce this, and he believes it will not be the policy of Congress. An election is necessary for two United States Senators, one for six years from the 3d of March last, and the other for the unexpired term to March 1867. He recommends the issuing of State bonds and the selling of them to pay the State debt and avoid present taxation for the organization of the militia.

COLUMBIA, (S. C.,) October 27th.—In the Legislature to day a message was received from Gov. Perry, transmitting a report of the Commissioners appointed by the Convention to prepare a system of laws adapted to the new state of affairs. The report embraces a bill for the regulation of the domestic relations of slaves. The bill is a preliminary step in that legislation induced by the emancipation of the slaves and is a code for the regulation of labor, and for the protection and government of the colored people of the State. The 13th of November has been fixed for the election of members of Congress.

The Oppression of the Freedmen.

NEW YORK, October 28.—The Tribune's Jackson (Mississippi) correspondent says Governor Sharkey's first order to his militia is that they shall search the houses of the freedmen for arms and ammunition.

NEW ORLEANS, October 27th.—The Mississippi Legislature has referred to the Judiciary Committee a bill to suspend for a limited time the collection of debts, but securing to creditors interest thereon during suspension.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The Tribune's Washington special says: Advices received at the freedmen's bureau to day from Mississippi, represent an unsatisfactory state of affairs existing in that State in relation to freedmen. Many of the Courts still refuse the admission of negro evidence, notwithstanding the proclamation of the Governor. They evince an intention to evade in every way possible the recognition of the rights of freedmen. The teachers for freedmen sent out by Northern benevolent societies, are leaving their schools with the withdrawal of our troops.

Mexican News.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 27.—The Picayune's Matamoros correspondent of the 18th, says Cortinas and Canales have 2,000 men and twelve cannon. The foreign pickets were driven and pressed into town by Cortinas. For five months there has been a repetition of these scenes. Cortinas, with a force estimated at from 300 to 500 men, is keeping Mejia's force inside their fortifications. There is no communication with Bagdad except by the other side of the river, and none at all with Monterey and the interior. General Mejia has ordered all communication closed with Brownsville, and the chaparral levelled for the artillery. Mejia has about 1,700 men well armed and equipped, but lacks officers and guns. The native population are decidedly in favor of the Liberals. It is believed that the Liberal force is greatly exaggerated. It is hardly thought that they will assault the town, but probably will besiege it and try to starve it into submission or force the Imperialists into battle. The convoy so often driven back to Monterey has at last started with an escort of 1,000 French troops and 800 Imperialists.

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—The following is a private dispatch from a source considered reliable:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—J. F. Miller has been appointed Collector of Customs at San Francisco, in place of Charles James, removed. This appointment is understood to have been made unsolicited by the appointee, and was made independent of political consideration or influence.

Quincey A. Brooks, of Portland, Oregon, is appointed special agent of the post office department for the State of Oregon, and Washington and Idaho territories, with instructions to report to Col. A. H. Markland, superintendent of mails on the Pacific coast.

The new steamboat built for the California Steam Navigation Company, and described in yesterday's Bulletin, was successfully launched from the Company's yard at the Potrero this morning in the presence of several thousand spectators, who had assembled from this city to witness the spectacle. The ferry boat San Antonio took out a large party of ladies and gentlemen to witness the launch. The waters of the bay in the vicinity of the Potrero were thickly dotted with yachts, sail boats and row boats, filled with pleasure parties, while the hill sides in the neighborhood of the yard were covered with spectators of both sexes. The new steamer was gaily decked for the occasion with flags and banners and her freshly painted hull looked like a white robed virgin prepared for the bath. At precisely eleven and a half o'clock, the time advertised for launch. The last of the stays was knocked away, the signal gun was fired, and the steamer glided slowly down the ways into the water, amid the cheers of the spectators, mingled with the strains of music from the band on board the Sea [illegible], which struck up the appropriate air of "Life on the Ocean Wave." The gradual descent from the ways gave an impetus sufficient only to send the boat a hundred yards or less into the water, but the swan like gracefulness with which she rode the waves, and the beauty and symmetry of her model won the admiration of all beholders. The enviable task of christening the new boat was entrusted to Miss Sarah Anderson, who broke a bottle of wine upon her stem as she commenced the descent of the ways, thus baptizing her, according to custom, with a draught from the [illegible] she entered the chilly domain of Neptune. [illegible] flowed down her bow her name, which had hitherto been kept secret, was unfurled over her deck and spectators read in large white letters upon a crimson groundwork—The Capital.

More mustering out orders have been received from military headquarters for mustering out the 4th regiment of California volunteers.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, while Collector James, naval officer Brooks and Lieut. Moore, of the [illegible], were in a small boat fishing, being anchored in the narrows a few hundred yards off North Point, a huge combined wave struck the boat broadside and capsized her among the rocks on the Point. The party were considerably bruised, and one of the oarsmen had his arm broken. Barring this, however, all got safely to shore and were hospitably received and provided for by the garrison and the light house keeper and his family.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—The largest of the submarine cables for Col. Bulkley was landed yesterday on Pacific wharf by Commodore Allen from the ship [illegible]. It weighs nine tons and is 11½ miles long. It will be sent north as soon as possible. It is a fine piece of workmanship.

Col. Rene de Russey, Chief Military Engineer of the Department of the Pacific, received notice by telegraph yesterday of his promotion by the President of the United States, to the rank of Brevet Brigadier General in the regular army.

Gen. McDowell orders a detachment not to exceed a non-commissioned officer and twelve men, from the company of cavalry at Smoke Creek, to report to the commanding officer at Summit Lake, for service at that place.

The commander of the sub district of Plumas, will, in anticipation of the arrival of the company of the 9th infantry at Summit Lake, cause one of the companies and as many of the other companies of the 6th infantry, C. V., now there, as may not be required to guard the stores, to take up their line of march for California, as heretofore ordered.

By special order No. 86, from headquarters department of California, Capt. Charles O. Wood and Lieut. George W. Walker, 9th infantry, are temporarily appointed assistant commissaries of musters, the first named at Fort Churchill, and the latter at Camp Ruby.

Although it is desirable that the rank and file of the rebels should disperse, it is just as well that the leaders shall hang together.

MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER [illegible]

England in Trouble

In the [illegible] time is [illegible] coming [illegible] South in rebellion greatly rejoiced at the prospect [illegible] in the shape of a rebellion would [illegible] though he cannot but remember the theory he so lately expounded of the right of the people of a portion of a country to resolve to leave a government that does not please them [illegible] next thing he proceeds to put the [illegible] operation and arrests and imprisons those who are suspected of treasonable purposes. This time he finds that it is his ox which is gored. He does not wait until the movement gathers head and bursts upon him, but at the hazard of destroying the "liberty of the citizen," a thing which on our case he piously and vehemently deprecated, he anticipates the blow and by the severity of his measures endeavors to prevent the explosion of the grand plot which would sink his government amid its own ruins.

John Bull knows that a scheme is on foot to release Ireland from his grasp, but he cannot learn where the first blow will fall. In his perplexity he raves rather excitedly, accusing the United States of Punic faith toward him, asserting that our Government is to blame for this threatened onslaught upon his peace, and very superfluously declaring that he must have reparation for these supposed injuries. The old gentleman seems to be scared out of all dignity and propriety. He beseechingly asks our Government to aid him in ferreting out the plot and to give him timely information whenever any danger threatens. Evidently he thinks that the time has come for him to receive good in return for the evil he recently did us. Now when our day of danger is past and he no longer sees an opportunity of breaking our Government down, he can be very obliging. He talks about paying our spoliation claims, and asks us to be so kind as to hand in the bill. His bluster and bravado are quite at an end, and coaxing and cajolery are tried instead. True, he now and then intimates that he has some counter claims which we are to pay, but as we have not recently done him any hurt except by capturing the blockade runners which, to our detriment, he kept so very busy during the rebellion, we must suppose him not to be at all in earnest in asking for restitution.

A powerful rebellion is a very nice thing to look upon when it threatens the disintegration of a rival power. But when it occurs at home and attacks the integrity of one's own Government it is not smiled on quite so approvingly. From present indications, it appears as if our very impartial friend Mr. Bull, will soon have a chance to show us how he likes to have in his own family the kind of thing which he lavished so many praises upon while it was disturbing the peace of our country. In his "Germania," Tacitus said that the hope and safety of Rome was in the disputes, animosities and wars which existed between the various tribes of barbarians, and hence the historian expressed a desire that these quarrels might continue. For a similar reason, often expressed in one way or another, England desired that our broils might never come to an end. Our country is not now in awe of Albion's power, and accordingly we have no motive for wishing her own citizens to destroy each other; but still we cannot help entertaining a feeling of satisfaction to see our "neutral friends" all in a flurry at the bare prospect of a rebellion at home.

It really looks as if there were serious danger to England in the Fenian movement. The strength of the organization is in America, and it is not improbable that there may be an attack on Canada. This attack, if made, will be successful unless our Government puts the assailants down. England can never do it. For all the purposes of safety, she had as well remove all her troops from the Provinces as to double their numbers there. In the meantime we will look on and see England struggle with the difficulty she is in. It is our turn to be "neutral" now.

"As it Was."—President Johnson has only to give us back the old Union just as it was, to be the second Washington of America!—San Francisco Examiner.

To every friend of freedom, humanity, progress and civilization, the "Union as it was," is known to be a thing as impossible as it is proven undesirable. The "Union as it was," was not the consummation of our country's greatness and glory. For many years prior to the rebellion, the "perfect Union" which our fathers thought they were giving us, had no existence. Between opposing sections there was no homogeneity of interests, no similarity of feeling or sentiment; no harmonious intercourse. Contention rose to so great a height that for years the country stood upon the verge of civil war. For this, there was one prime inciting cause. That cause is now removed. The Union which henceforward will grow in the hearts of the people will prove a far different thing from the "Union as it was," which the noisy and unwise leaders of miserable political factions suppose is to be restored.

Not a few seem to think that great commotions such as our country has lately witnessed, make or should make no changes in politics or Government—that after an upheaval of the foundations and structure of political society, things may return to precisely the same condition in which they rested before the commotion began. All history says the contrary. All experience is at variance with the supposition. Yesterdays never return. No [illegible] can there ever be an exact repetition of all the events they have seen, or a complete restoration of institutions which have heretofore existed, and which by law of progress have passed away. Hence the "Union as it was" will never exist again. A better will succeed it.

Were it possible to give the croakers and brawlers the object of their clamor the country would at once be placed in a situation which would render another war inevitable. Should we give them the "Union as it was" they would either give us another rebellion or something quite similar to it. We should have another Pierce and their Buchanan, more Floyds, Breckinridges and Benjamins. The antagonisms which were generated by the existence of slavery among a free people would spring up anew. It was impossible for true reconcilement to grow between different sections while the cause of the difficulty still remained. We do not want the "Union as it was" because we do not want a renewal of the acrimonious feeling of the past nor a repetition of the fearful scenes lately witnessed. With our experiences before him a Washington would not give us the "Union as it was." He would labor rather for the establishment of a higher object, for the institution of a Government under which the people could live in harmony among themselves, instead of being continually at enmity as has been the case in our country for forty years.

The Right Man.—The Ormsby County Nev. "Democracy" lately held a meeting which was called to order by [illegible] a disbanded rebel soldier from Price's army. Next spring we expect to find parallel cases in almost every county in Oregon. "Price's volunteers" all have an itching to engage prominently in politics, and are also both [illegible] politicians and lawyers.

An Affirm Everyone.—It is amusing to look over the Democratic papers in this State and observe to what a pitiful bankruptcy in the matter of argument the editors are reduced. Their only stock in trade seems to be "amalgamation," "nigger" and "negro suffrage." Not a measure can be proposed by the dominant party, but the astute fellows see a nigger at the bottom and end of it; not an "elopement in high life" nor a foundling in low life is heard of, but these virtuous editors declare that it was the upshot of some abolition plot," and scarcely an accident can happen but these wise chaps will be ready to attribute it to the "abolition government." They are to be pitied, for if they do not get some relief from their present bilious and constipated condition, they will be really in danger of losing the little wit they have left, and find themselves in the condition they so much fear of being no more than equal to a nigger.

A Mistake.—The [illegible] Bulletin of a recent date says that works for the reduction of iron ore have for some time been in operation near Oregon City in this State. We regret to say that the Bulletin is in error. So far as we are aware no movement has yet been made to erect works to smelt the rich ore that forms the huge mountain of iron near Oswego. It is a reproach to Oregon that she has not enterprise enough to undertake the most useful work. We hope a portion of the pros of general [illegible] will yet live long enough to see something done toward calling out the hidden wealth of Oregon from its hiding places.

A Sensible View.—A liberal Southern paper says the South has lost one thing by emancipation. Before the war the slaves belonged to their masters, whereas now they belong to the [illegible] themselves. [illegible] loss of slave property there is as much wealth in the South as ever there was. The labor of the negro while a slave [illegible] to his master; now that he is free his labor will be of equal or greater value to himself and the country.

A Richmond paper says that some of the Union Generals better retire and remain quiet hereafter. From the [illegible], which the ex-rebels assume, we are of opinion that it will soon become a matter of concern with many to know whether Jeff. Davis will condescend to pardon them for the part they performed in quelling the rebellion.

[illegible] The Walla Walla Statesman says: "We feel [illegible] very justly the Southern [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

This is a droll picture of [illegible] tion of our country where [illegible] fratricidal war, people [illegible] blamable since [illegible] the influence of slavery [illegible] the dirk and bowie knife [illegible] of the past and the victims [illegible] the Utah passed through his [illegible] ways and exclusively white gentlemen who were concerned in the affairs [illegible] never anything [illegible] the ways which human passion has brought upon the South, and yet we expect a [illegible] to the Negro [illegible] of helplessness against which we protest. We regret the elysian state of the South [illegible] and we know from the treatment which our [illegible] there during the war that [illegible] probably more [illegible] given in the Southern whites for the wrongs which the world [illegible] inflicting upon them. But after all, [illegible] column of outrages rather [illegible] thing." We believe that any person who is bitten by a sheep has a right to defend himself against it, and we do not ask [illegible] innocent passers by in every direction [illegible] be confirmed in this opinion [illegible] southern [illegible] and accomplishes no good [illegible] the treatment of the South [illegible] and aggressive [illegible] whites must be protected against [illegible] brave servile positions [illegible] marry white boatmen [illegible] the likeness of [illegible] shot, or are killed [illegible] which the reporters cannot learn the [illegible] they are perhaps sufficiently punished [illegible] own crime. But we ask the editor of the [illegible] Argus in all seriousness, to reduce his hair ways record of outrages to one outrage a day, or at the most, two, otherwise we shall be obliged to give over the instructive reading of his paper [illegible] English society alarmed by the awful picture of anarchy in the South will be satisfied with nothing less than the return to that country [illegible] Arrowsmith as the London [illegible] correspondent.—New York Times.

Stage Road Agent Killed.—A terrible [illegible] occurred at Walla Walla on the 1st [illegible] the stage [illegible] Walla Walla [illegible] The town was startled by the report of [illegible] the brewery. About twenty minutes after the [illegible] found [illegible] bullets. Two men were [illegible] in the neigh[illegible] to be the murderers [illegible] woman who [illegible] the stage robbery [illegible] murdered man [illegible] The plan adopted appears [illegible] attempted in the plain view of several houses. The names of [illegible] the parties are made public [illegible]

The Works at Oregon City.—The works which the [illegible] Transportation Company are constructing at Willamette Falls are approaching completion. A large part of the breakwater is built and the remainder is, so far, at least, as it was intended to push the work this fall, will be finished in a few days. The rock has nearly all been removed from the channel which is to lead from the basin up to Canemah. This part of the work has been difficult to do and expensive. The rock had to be removed by blasting, and hence the progress was slow.

The Company's new warehouse at the lower end of the basin is now being erected. It will receive the roof this week. It is a large and very substantial structure.

The water in the basin already stands at a considerable depth. The full weight of water will be let in as soon as the breakwater is completed. The Company will be able to pass freight through their warehouse in a short time.

Fort Patterson has been indicted at Idaho City for the murder of Sumner Pinkham, and the trial appointed for the 10th of October. We have not yet learned the result of the trial.

Correction.—In our last issue appeared a paragraph beginning with, "General Sherman, the Democratic nominee for Secretary of State in New York," &c. We wrote General S[illegible]

It is said that the new counterfeit $500 compound interest note is prepared in part, at least, from the genuine plates. No wonder it is a dangerous counterfeit.

Forgetting Two Women.—Some years ago a gentleman died. His widow inherits his property and enlarged the insurance on his life, and very soon enlarged, repaired and fitted up her residence in a quite luxurious style. A friend calling expressed some little surprise that she had made these nice arrangements so soon after the decease of Mr. M[illegible] "Why shouldn't I do it?" replied the practical relic. "My husband, [illegible] man as he was, is enjoying a glorious mansion in the skies, and of course he would wish me to be as comfortable as possible here on earth." Who says that woman's faith was not shown by her works.—Boston Transcript.

Exodus of Canadian Youth.—The Catholic Bishop of Toronto reports a great loss of population in his diocese, and therefore refrains from rebuilding St. Patrick's Church. He says the young men are leaving the country in every direction. His clergy have lately given him a census of their parishes, by which it appears that the population is 12,000 less than it was in 1861. In Toronto city alone, Catholics have gone away to the United States for employment to the number of 4,000. There are therefore, but 8,000 left. In Lower Canada it is much the same. The people are leaving it in tens of thousands. In default of the annexation of Canada to this country, the people seem to be annexing themselves to it pretty fast.

Nevada Politics.—The political canvass in Nevada is warming up. Union meetings are frequently held. Ashley, the Union nominee for Congressman, has made appointments to speak in all the principal towns in the State. The Democrats have nominated as his opponent Henry K. Mitchell, a young lawyer of no experience in affairs, who formerly resided at Marysville, California, where he was a consistent opponent of the war for the preservation of the Union, made public speeches for the Democracy, and was their nominee for State Senator at one time.

It is then many persons doubt the truth so often asserted, that one dose of Hall's Pulmonary Balsam will cure a cold. One tablespoonful taken at bed time will surely cure any cold in the head, chest or throat. It is sold by all druggists at fifty cents a bottle.

Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Dressing. You cannot be bald, grey, and [illegible] time nor sickness can blemish your Hair if you use them. Sold by all Druggists.

With [illegible] hand tender care
And [illegible] the years are you shall mark

And braid the [illegible] braids [illegible] my hands—
[illegible]
And [illegible] with it though that day—
Some day!

I know how long [illegible] loving hands
Will linger with these glossy bands
When you shall wear my last, last crown
Of these thick braidings, long and brown;
But some will see no touch of gray
Adown their shining length that day—
Some day!

And while your tears are falling hot
Upon the lips which answer not,
You'll take from these one treasured tress
And leave the rest to stillness—
Remember that I used to say
I will think of this again some day
Some day!

South Carolina Loyalty

We find in one or two papers that cannot be suspected of radicalism some interesting and significant incidents of the Perry Convention in South Carolina. It appears that Perry is himself the master spirit of the Convention. One correspondent says the Provisional Governor "sometimes spends the whole day there, his son and Private Secretary is one of the delegates. It is an almost every hour occurrence in the debates that the question is asked: 'Is that view approved by the Provisional Governor?' or the remark made: 'I think we had better consult the Governor first.'" One of the Provisional Governor's particular friends seems to be one Aldrich, of the fire eating persuasion, who opened the business of the Convention by offering the following resolution:

Resolved, That under the present extraordinary circumstances, it is both wise and politic to accept the conditions in which we are placed, to endure patiently the evils we cannot avert or correct, and to await calmly the time and opportunity to effect our deliverance from unconstitutional rule.

In the debate which followed, Aldrich declared that the people of his State were living under a military despotism, repugnant alike to them and to the Federal Constitution. He hoped for the speedy overthrow of the party now in power at the North, and the restoration of a constitutional Government under the Democratic party—just as in the good old times before the Charleston Convention and with the unlimited right for every man to "larrup his own nigger."

We have already had an account of the passage of the ordinance repealing the Act of Secession. Our conservative correspondent remarks that the announcement of the vote "was received in silence—strikingly suggestive when one remembered with what dramatic applause the ordinance of secession was proclaimed." The moment that business was over resolutions were introduced whose mild and amiable character may be guessed from the following preamble:

WHEREAS, By the fortunes of war our former noble and beloved Chief Magistrate, Jefferson Davis, is now languishing in prison, awaiting his trial for treason; and whereas, the fanatics of the North not satisfied with the wide-spread ruin and desolation which they have caused, are shrieking for blood.

Therefore, resolved that it is the paramount duty of South Carolina to use every lawful means to avert his doom, and that a deputation be sent to Washington to ask that the same clemency be shown to us "the sharers of his guilt, if guilt there be," be granted to Davis. We have no objection to the petition, but the language of it strikes us as being a little "loud," all things considered.

The amendment to abolish slavery was not destined to pass without debate and proposed amendments. A Mr. Blair objected to the ordinance because "two hundred million dollars of property had been taken from a people at one blow, and the passage of the ordinance in this shape will debar them of the last faint hope of compensation." Blair was for leaving the matter to a future Legislature, which would undoubtedly "be a much fairer representation of the people than the Convention." He proposed, also, an amendment "to prevent the negroes from engaging in any but menial occupations"—such as being a delegate to Constitutional Conventions, and the like, we suppose.

James L. Orr, the former Speaker of the House of Representatives, is a person of more consequence than most whose names appear in the Convention. His voice is for prudence, yet he cannot restrain himself from saying: "If good fortune had not followed the South, and had not Andrew Johnson been placed in the Presidential chair, the radical element would have ruled. * * Andrew Johnson is the dyke that preserves us from the wave of Northern radicalism." That is, had not Lincoln been assassinated, good fortune would not have followed the South, as it is now following it.

General McGowan—General by rebel title—is another speech maker. He declares, "It is my calm and deliberate conviction that the war was waged on us. We wished to manage our affairs in our own way, and that was the head and front of our offending. * * * I intend to vote for prohibiting slavery in the Constitution only on condition that we are to have the rights of a State in the Union, and that we alone should have the right to manage our political affinities in our own way. If not, I would prefer martyrdom."

As in the case of Alabama, which we considered the other day, we quote these expressions of opinion by leading men in the South Carolina Convention as evidences of the real feeling of the State, not expressed in its formal ordinances. How much genuine loyalty there is in them our readers may judge.—N. Y. Tribune.

A PHRENOLOGICAL VIEW OF PRESIDENT JOHNSON.—In a recent number of the Phrenological Journal we find this analysis of the character of "Andy Johnson:"

Phrenologically considered, he has a large brain, well supported by an excellent constitution. The brain is specially heavy in the base, including large perceptive organs, broad between the ears in Destructiveness, Combativeness and Alimentiveness, large in the lower back-head, including the social affections, and were it not that Johnson has also a full top head, including Conscientiousness, Veneration and Benevolence, he would indeed be imperious or despotic. As it is, he possesses a very strong will, the greatest fortitude and unlimited powers of endurance, with courage and force to match. Cautiousness is not over large. Secretiveness is full, and the intellectual faculties are prominent and active. Self Esteem is full, and considerable pride of character will be manifested.

Owing to large Approbativeness, he will never be haughty, proud or domineering, but will be modest, just, respectful and judicious, but always strong and earnest. That he will freely confer with his advisers, getting the best judgment from all sources there can be no doubt, and that he will be master of the situation be governed by what he conceives to be right and proper, holding all men to the most rigid accountability to principles, there can be no question. There will be no child's play with such a man. He will be calm, self regulated and determined. His organization will incline him to take a comprehensive view of questions, and to consider the interests of the people. There is nothing aristocratic in his composition but he is eminently democratic in the best sense of that term, granting the same rights to all men that he claims for himself. There is not the slightest touch or pretension to royalty, or the feeling that "I am better than thou," nor would he play the sycophant to lords or crowned heads. He is and always will be, plain Andrew Johnson. He can be used by others only in the interest of the people. He is benevolent and even reformatory in spirit but conservative in principle. It severe to the wicked he will be just, and to be humble and penitent he will be kind. His physiognomy has an expression of anxious care, as though he were peering into the future, trying to divine the will of providence. He has not that joyous hopeful, sunny expression which illuminated the face of Lincoln, but is more sedate and stern looking, which is in keeping with the character of the man. Lincoln's head was narrower between the ears. Johnson's is very broad at this point. Lincoln was high in the centre, indicating humility, meekness and devotion. Johnson is not deficient in these organs, but they do not exert a very marked influence. Executiveness is the leading trait of his character, and be his Presidential career a success or a failure it will not lack propelling power or the spirit to punish wickedness. He may show leniency, but it will not be until he first sees penitence on the part of the feudor.

A Copperhead paper suggests that "the Freedmen's Bureau is a National Boarding School for niggers." Considering the amount of rations distributed to "refugees," we should rather think it was an almshouse for the whites.

A [illegible] STATESMAN.—HON. WILLIAM L. YANCEY MET HIS DEATH.—As you enter the cemetery at Montgomery and turn to the right you will will perceive a colonnade of maple trees leading off to a quiet green. Beyond is a grassy knoll, and leaving this to the left, you will approach a pleasant level of greensward. Here you will be tempted to pause before a plain slab of white marble of the most humble description. It bears a single inscription: "William L. Yancey." His last words were: "Put me out of sight," and it is said that he was continually muttering toward his latter end the line of [illegible]:

Let me live unseen, unknown,
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]

His death was quiet and painless after a year of acute physical and mental suffering. He was a strict churchman, a man of quiet manners, a handsome declaimer and a fair scholar. He was never wealthy, and it is understood he left his family without an independence.

The time has come when the circumstances of his last illness and death, and the occasion which suddenly convulsed a frame from perfect health into a wreck, in one instant, may be mentioned as a historical fact. William L. Yancey came to his death by violence. It was during the second session of the Confederate Congress that he broke from the councils and influence of Davis and became with Henry S. Foote, a leader of the opposition. Ben Hill, a Senator from Georgia, had likewise changed his front and was remarkable for the earnestness, personal interest and persistency with which he sustained the measures of an Administration to which his allegiance had been given but late in the day. Yancey, it will be remembered, had returned from an unsuccessful mission to Europe, and was representing Alabama in the Confederate Senate.

The question of a navy was under discussion in secret session. The debate ranged beyond the parliamentary limits, and Yancey and Hill became animated over the abstract doctrines of State rights and the divinity of slavery. High words passed and finally the lie was given by Hill. Yancey leaped forward, and as he aimed a blow at his adversary, was caught in the arms of the latter and violently thrown back over a desk. Hill is a man of wonderful muscular development. Yancey was never very heavy though lithe and active. In the fall his spine was seriously injured and when the bystanders rushed upon the two and dragged the one from the other, the great Senator lay unconscious upon the floor, with a little trickle of blood oozing from his lips. He was carried to his hotel; a vote of secrecy was passed, and the encounter hushed up. No one in Richmond except that body of men knew of the circumstance for six months after. Meanwhile the victim did not recover. He drooped from day to day. He became listless, hopeless and vacant. He was transferred to his own home, where his convulsions ceased a few weeks before his death, which was tranquil and calm.—Nashville Banner.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION.—Professor Draper, who has just published a work entitled "Future Civil Policy of America," discusses the probable effects of Asiatic immigration, and makes a startling announcement that we are threatened with the permanent establishment of polygamy on this coast as a consequence of the settlement of Celestials among us. He says:

Considering that, under the circumstances of the case, the individuals who are thus destined to disturb the Pacific coast must necessarily issue from the lower social grades of the country from which they come, their admixture with the native American population cannot be viewed without anxiety. The Pacific States will do well to look to their public schools laying broad and munificent foundations for their educational system giving no encouragement to the use of any foreign tongue and fusing into their mass as thoroughly and rapidly as may be, their inevitable hybrid population.

With Eastern blood will necessarily come Eastern thoughts, and the attempt at Eastern social habits. I have already referred to the political power of polygamic institutions. It must not be forgotten that they are in accordance with the sentiments of Asiatics. Especially, also, should it be borne in mind that they have already obtained a firm root in Utah. There is imminent danger of the spread of these institutions in the West. As men approach the confines of Asia, they seem to be affected by its moral atmosphere.

Whatever may at present be the strength of the sentiment of disapproval or even of detestation with which we regard polygamy, we cannot conceal from ourselves the strong temptation that will arise from its adoption in the West. We should remember how easily and how often, in an evil hour great and even religious communities may be led astray. Our present abhorrence of this vice is no greater than was the abhorrence of human slavery in England a few years ago. Yet, because of a contingent political advantage—the division and consequent neutralization of a maritime rival—the country forgot her noblest philanthropic traditions, and had arrayed herself in moral support of the slave power in America.

Warned by such a conspicuous example, we need not be surprised if hereafter there should be politicians—statesmen I will not call them—who may see in an extension of the practices of Utah a solution of the portentous problem of the admixture of the Pacific races. As the Saracens Arabized the North of Africa in the course of a very few years, they may believe that it is possible to Americanize those races.

"TALL TALK."—There is a newspaper in New Orleans called the South and which, as the reader will infer from its sectional title is an adherent of the sectional party which calls itself Democratic. In a recent number of this South appears an interesting review of the political situation, from which we extract the following paragraphs:

"The issue is made up. Down the lines of the radicals, cheered by the Worter faced negrophilists and their dusky cohorts, ride Wendell Phillips, Sumner, Wilson, Fred Douglass and the rest of the Yahoos. Down the lines of the Democratic party ride a staff of white leaders, who are determined to sustain the Constitution, the rights of the States under the Constitution, save the white man's country from shame and degradation, and give it peace and prosperity. * * *

"The Democratic leaders are nearly ready to cry 'Up, boys, and eat 'em!' For years the radical Republicans have been vociferous, their 'vaulting ambition has o'erleaped itself,' and defeat is before them, provided all good citizens do their duty.

"Vallandigham, Seymour, Pierce, Wood, Long, stretch their hands to the people of the Southern States and say, 'Come and help us beat the enemies of the Constitution and the State rights doctrines of the fathers of the Revolution.'"

The South instinctively recognizes the leaders of the Democratic party. But its language is of that kind to which an old English lady, not too well instructed, once applied a very felicitous term. Being asked what she thought of the speech of a somewhat foolish member of Parliament, she replied that "it was too ad [illegible]" to suit her.

EUROPEAN AMBITION.—Two or three of the Powers of Europe seem to desire exclusive control of the work of governing the entire human family. Besides her vast and populous colonial possessions in different parts of the world from Australia to Canada, England governs nearly one fifth of mankind in the East Indies. France has lately extended her power into Mexico on the one hand and in Cochin China on the other, and there are both British and French statesmen and political writers who are strongly in favor of the extension of the Franco English or Anglo French rule over China. Russia is forever extending her territories and enlarging the population under her sway, and is actively intriguing both in Turkey and Persia. The other two of the great European Powers, Austria and Prussia, have no especial aspirations outside of Europe.

The United States have never had anything to say about the ambitions and conquests of these three European Powers. Any one or two of them might set up their dominion by force of arms in China, after which these three governments would rule three fifths of the human race, we would not interfere in the matter. If we should have occasion to check the career of ambition and conquest of any one of them, it will most likely be on this continent.—N. Y. Times.
